HISTORY IN BRIEF

"I often say that we were born under a coffee tree. We are following a family tradition, my father was also a coffee grower, I am already passing on this legacy to my sons. Today, they are in charge of the farm and doing what they love. That's why we've achieved good results because we work with what we love."

Airton Neves de Deus

Airton was born and raised on a coffee farm in the Campo das Vertentes region. The history of Arco-Íris farm began with a family tradition: his father was also a coffee grower and helped him acquire the property.

Cultivating his passion for coffee, Airton is an Agriculture Technician, and after getting married he started growing the coffee business by expanding the coffee fields.

In the third generation of coffee growing, Airton is already passing on the coffee legacy to his sons who follow his passion for coffee. Nowadays, Tiago and Rangel are already actively working on the farm. Tiago has a background in business administration and Rangel - in agriculture. Rangel works on the farm's certifications and production with sustainability.
